FEMINISM AS A METHOD

Feminist Epistemologies, Methodologies and Methods in the Social Sciences

Over the past decade, feminist epistemology and the feminist perspective on methodologies has been the focus of renewed interest, also due to the new wave of mobilizations at the global level against gender-based violence and inequality. The international conference “Feminism as a Method” aims to explore the contribution of feminist theories and approaches to epistemology, methodology and methods in the social sciences. It brings together scholars from different disciplines and areas of research: sociology, anthropology, history, political science, geography, political ecology, cultural studies, science and technology, philosophy, and art.
